

Henry's enthusiasm and diligent approach to appraisals and research shines through and augurs well for his future. Having successfully passed his APC and becoming a Chartered Member of the RTPI in May 2023.

BSc (Hons) Geography – University of Northampton

MSc Planning – University of Manchester

Member of the Royal Town Planning Institute

Henry joined Planning Potential in 2020, having completed his planning masters at the University of Manchester.

Henry assists on projects for a range of residential and commercial developments across the UK, showing an eagerness to develop and hone his skills. He has increased his understanding of the planning process by conducting research and monitoring as well as through the preparation of appraisals and supporting and attending public consultations.

Henry has enjoyed getting involved with the diverse and challenging aspects that often come with residential projects. He has worked on several different projects ranging in size from bespoke dwellings to major residential schemes. He has increased his understanding and experience of the planning system by undertaking site appraisals, preparing and submitting planning applications and appeals and through engagement with technical consultants.

Outside the office Henry is a keen supporter of Manchester City, he enjoys running, playing golf and 5-a-side football with friends. Aside from his sporting interests, Henry enjoys discovering new restaurants and exploring the countryside with his two dogs.
