

Jack McLean

Assistant Planner

A fresh graduate from the University of the West of England, Jack is adaptable, friendly, and uses his initiative when tackling new problems.

BSc in Urban Planning – University of the West of England

MSc in Planning and Urban Leadership – University of the West of England

Jack is the newest addition to the team at Bristol's Planning Potential Office. A fresh graduate from the University of the West of England, he is adaptable, friendly, and uses his initiative when tackling new problems.

Originally from Eastbourne, Jack found his passion for planning through education, culminating in two planning related university degrees. He may be starting out his professional journey, however, his determination and passion for the field is clear to see and we can't wait to watch him thrive.

In his free time, Jack is a keen Brighton and Hove Albion F.C fan who enjoys watching a multitude of different sports including Golf, American Football, and Formula One. On the weekends you will either find him at live music events, playing 6-a-side with friends, or by the trees at a golf course trying to find his ball.
